

Dear Friends,

It's hard to believe that it's been a whole year since we made the decision to change our agency's name to Clover. As we reflect on this significant milestone, we want to take a moment to express our heartfelt gratitude for each and every one of you who supported us along the way.

The transition from Kingsley House to Clover was more than a change of name; it was a vital reaffirmation of our commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion and staunch advocacy against all forms of oppression and injustice.

We embarked on this journey with the vision of creating a brighter, more inclusive future for the children and families we serve, from birth to 100 years old.

We are immensely proud that we are achieving even greater impact than ever before and garnering extraordinary support from those who share our vision and values. The $3 million MacKenzie Scott Foundation grant we received earlier this year is a case in point. This incredible gift was the single largest private donation in the agency's 127-year history. The Scott team emphasized that Clover's proven commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion, as evidenced by the agency's name change, was a major factor in their award decision. This unrestricted grant will strengthen and deepen the agency's operations and unyielding work to educate children, strength families and build community.

With the support of our phenomenal staff and board, dedicated partners and generous donor community, Clover will continue to be a beacon of hope and provide life transforming programs and services far into the future. Thank you once again for your incredible support over the past year and always!

Sincerely,

Chimène Grant Saloy
